

World Radio Day in the Spirit of Diversity

Skopje, 13 February 2020 – Today marks the ninth World Radio Day, under the UNESCO auspices. This year, the day is marked in the spirit of diversity.

This year's themes aim to promote pluralism among all radio channels, encourage the editorial boards to engage people from different social groups, and make sure that their editorial content and programmes reflect the diversity of their audiences.

The wide range of programmes, viewpoints and contents which reflect the views and opinions of different groups of citizens, contributes to a social change and offers an opportunity for unification.

The Agency for Audio and Audiovisual Media Services congratulates all radio stations in the country on the World Radio Day and invites them to make their own contribution to its celebration.
